Band GO*Year: 2008Label: Renaissance RecordsCategories: Gothic
 Review this album.
MetalBite Review by JD on 10/25/2008

This Goth/Metal duo us from the land down under...Melbourne Au my desk. Don't know what their name actually means... but it su bat.

They seem to be musically very impressive and rather stunning... good mix of Evanescence with the musical heaviness of someone wrong here, the lyrics that the lead vocalist, Kelly Lean comes up have heard, along with some punch... but her vocal style is not quit

Kelly Lean sounds almost exactly like how Amy Lee of Evanescence rather a spooky mirroring of her. The tone she holds, the power that has been used musically... makes her sound very close to Mis: a-likes at the best of times, they usually made me cringe at tl Temujin was able to rise over the comparisons and has started c had always wanted the band Evanescence to have their music g what has been put out there, so I was so glad when I found that could be.( Hey, Amy... check it out).

The music, although put together with a myriad of MIDI tools, cor musicians..."1000 Tears" is a pretty solid album. Recording wise only minor. I hope Temujin becomes a full fledged band, with perr are great... getting the right people and letting it all flow, would jus

This gothic twosome is clearly going places, and the band can't h look forward to hearing the next album.... and hope that they hav these other great bands to forge a style all of their own. It they did
